

Joanna's research lies in the topic of participation, particularly in the way civic participation intersects with participation in the design of digital services and technology. Amalia's research activity focuses on Digital Social Innovation, in particular on the intersection between Interaction Design and Service Design. Nicola's experience includes systemic approach to design and methodological insights on service design and strategic design. Luca's research revolves around the strategic, managerial, economic and organizational components of design.